The Cultural Heritage Grant Program was created in 2003 and is administered by the State Historical Society. The purpose of the program is to provide grant funding for local museums and historical societies. Cultural Heritage Grants can be used for projects in six categories: Exhibit Projects, Special Projects or Events, Education Projects, Collections Projects, Archival Supply Purchase and Capital Improvement Projects.

Historic Preservation Fund

Historic buildings are tangible links with the past. They help give a community a sense of identity, stability and orientation. The State Historical Society of North Dakota through the assistance of federal and state funding sources encourages the preservation of historic buildings.

The State Historical Society of North Dakota provides grant funding through the annual appropriation of Historic Preservation Fund (HPF) money from the National Park Service. Programs funded using HPF money includes the Certified Local Government (CLG) Program, Historic Development Grants, and internal projects.

The Certified Local Government program is a preservation partnership between local, state, and national governments focused on promoting historic preservation at the grass roots level. A minimum of 10% of the annual HPF appropriation must be passed through to the CLG Program. Grantees are required to match the funds with 40% local cash or in-kind match. North Dakota has seven certified local governments which are able to apply for a pass through grant; they include the City of Buffalo, City of Devils Lake, City of Dickinson, City of Fargo, City of Grand Forks, Walsh County, and Pembina County. Funding for this program is usually in the range of $65,000 to $80,000 annually.

Development Grants are offered for use in the restoration, stabilization, and protection of historic and archaeological properties. This money can only be used on properties listed in the National Register of Historic Places and the project must comply with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties.

Archaeology and Historic Preservation Division projects are also funded through the HPF appropriation. Internal projects focus on National Register listed or eligible properties and include archaeological excavations, archaeological survey, National Register nominations, and context development.

In Federal Fiscal Year 2009, $195,296 in grants were awarded and the grantee's provided $189,486 in matching funds for a total of $384,782 of historic preservation dollars working in North Dakota.

In Federal Fiscal Year 2010, $143,424 in grants were awarded and the grantee's provided $234,535 in Matching funds for a total of $377,959 of historic preservation dollars working in North Dakota.

Historic Preservation Tax Credit Program

The Federal Historic Preservation Tax Incentives program encourages private sector rehabilitation of historic buildings and is one of the nation's most successful and cost-effective community revitalization programs. It generates jobs and creates moderate and low-income housing in historic buildings.

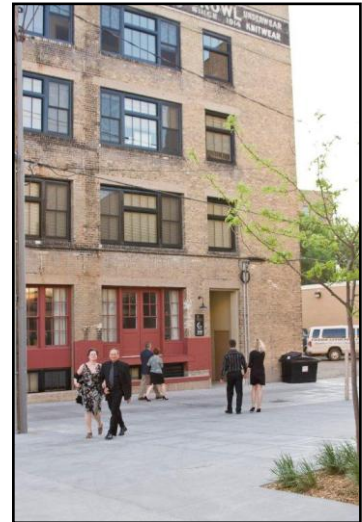

The tax incentives promote the rehabilitation of historic structures of every period, size, style and type. They are instrumental in preserving the historic places that give cities, towns and rural areas their special character. The tax incentives for preservation attract private investment to the historic cores of cities and towns. They also generate jobs, enhance property values, and augment revenues for State and local governments through increased property, business and income taxes. The Preservation Tax Incentives also help create moderate and low-income housing in historic buildings. Through this program, abandoned or underused schools, warehouses, factories, churches, retail stores, apartments, hotels, houses, and offices throughout the country have been restored to life in a manner that maintains their historic character.
